1. Introduction

The ‘Skillnets FOI Reference Manual – A guide to the functions, records, rules and practices of Skillnets, February 2015’ is compiled in accordance with the Freedom of Information Act 2014.

The Freedom of Information (FOI) Act, effective from 21st April 1998, established three new statutory rights:

- a legal right for each person to access records held by public bodies
- a legal right for each person to have official information relating to him/herself amended where it is incomplete, incorrect or misleading and
- a legal right to obtain reasons for decisions affecting oneself

The Act asserts the right of members of the public to obtain access to official information to the greatest extent possible consistent with the public interest and the right to privacy of individuals.

The FOI Act is designed to allow public access to information held by public bodies which is not routinely available through other sources (e.g. via publication or on the internet). Access to records under the FOI Act is subject to certain exemptions, involves specific procedures and time limits and may involve charges to the enquirer. Information on these points is given in this manual.

2. An Overview of Skillnets

Skillnets, established in 1999, is a state-funded, enterprise-led support body dedicated to the promotion and facilitation of training and upskilling as key elements in sustaining Ireland's national competitiveness. Skillnets' mission is to enhance the skills of people in employment in Irish industry to support competitiveness and employability. It supports and funds networks of enterprises (known as a Skillnet) to engage in training. These networks are led and managed by the enterprises themselves to design, manage and deliver specific training programmes across a broad range of industry and service sectors nationwide.

Skillnets manages two main programmes:

- The Training Networks Programme (TNP) and
- The Finuas Networks Programme (Finuas), a similar initiative for the international financial services sector.

An additional initiative, the ManagementWorks programme was undertaken in 2012 and aims to increase the level of management development in small and medium enterprises.

Skillnets manages these programmes with funding from the Department of Education and Skills (DES).

Skillnets' stakeholders include leading employer and employee representative bodies: Irish Business and Employers Confederation (Ibec), Chambers Ireland, Construction Industry Federation (CIF), Small Firms Association (SFA) and Irish Congress of Trade Unions (ICTU).

Further information on the above programmes may be found in Part 2 of this manual.

3. Purpose of this Reference Manual

This reference manual has been prepared and published in accordance with the requirements of the FOI Act. Its purpose is to describe our organisation and to help members of the public gain access to information held by Skillnets.

4. How to use this Reference Manual

The manual is divided into two parts:

Part 1 describes how to access information held by us and outlines the fees that may arise in doing so.

Part 2 describes the role and structure of Skillnets and the type of information held in the various parts of our organisation. This section also outlines the procedures and guidelines for our decision making.

5. How to access information held by Skillnets
